HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. HIS Medicine is universally admitted to be the most efficacious remedy known to the world. No preparation is sosuitable to the climates of India and China as this fine and invigorating medicine. is particularly adapted to the constitution of European ladies, as it is never failing in its effects in all diseases peculiar to females, while those who are attenuated by the debilitating effects of the above climates will find in this wonderful remedy a kind of talisman whereby they may insure a restoration to robust health.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. The science of Medicine has never before produced any remedy that can be compared to this wonderful Uintment, as it cares after all other means have failed, all wounds, sores, tileers, and also the most inveterate skin diseases peculiar to the climates of India and China. It is the true friend of the Soldier and Civilian, as certain old sores can be removed by it that cannot be conquered by any other treat-

THE "TREATY PORTS OF CHIN. & JAPAN," AND "NOTES AND

QUERIES ON UHINA AND JAPAN."

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS. (From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868. We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan" are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its interest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars, who have directed their attention towards the subject of Buddhism and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities alt deserves to be better known in Indis.

(From the "Strusts Times," July 27, 1868. Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has again been called to the subject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on hina and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and usefu information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and atability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently euccessful vigour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success.

This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports of China and Japan "] is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercantile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all the open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. Ithas been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. HONGKONG, SATURDAY, OCT. 3, 1868.

THE DEPRESSION OF TRADE, THE depression of Trade in Hougkons has formed the subject of a good deal of written and spoken remark of late, and we have been watching with extreme interest the course which public opinion has been taking. While the fact of the depression has by one and another been ascribed to not very dissimilar causes, there has been a curious abundance of assertion with scarcity of proof which is seldom exhibited in discussions so weighty. Vague, though emphatic, statements are made that "recent legislation," "depression at home," "the Governor's unpopularity" or "ill luck," the "gambling licenses," the "junk ordinance," &c., &c. are the primary causes of a slackness in business which everybody acknowledges to exist, but of which nobody is prepared to state, in a concrete form, the cause We will endeavour to, as far as possible, gather up the ends of the tangled skeins to which the discussion as hitherto presented may be likened, and to put the matter as clearly before our readers as the difficulties which surround it permit We accept without question the assertion that "trade" is in a depressed state. But we are inclined to believe that there exists a considerable difference between the state of " trade with China "-and thence, the share which Hongkong necessarily bears in that trade-and the state of "local trade"-by which we mean transactions in which the seller and buyer receive and deliver within the Colony; the state of business collateral thereto. such as the rates of bouse-rent, markets, and store articles, and all business in which the immediate sale of articles involving carriage from beyond the sea is not a necessary element. The state of China trade in which Hongkong is interested is depressed. The state of local trade is very depressed.

The causes, so far as they can be gathered from all available sources, seem divisable under three heads; 1st, occurences or facts quite independent of Hongkong; 2ml, the consequences of acts, orcurrences, or legislation, peculiar to this Colony; and 3rd the consequences of peculiar opinions in the native mind, which may or may not be warranted by factsto what extent they are we shall endeavour to shew. Under the first head we place the general state in Europe of the .China trade; the increase of direct Chinese business on the mainland, and of native trade in foreign bottoms, by which the foreign merchant and broker has been to a large extent superceded; the repressive measures recently put in force against smuggling by the Chinese authorities of the Canton province; a considerable revival of foreign trade with Canton; and lastly, but by no means least, the change which the last few years has wrought in the tea and silk business. We cannot be blind to the fact that upon the ruling prices of, and demand for, QUERIES :- Jade Stone | The Dragon these commodities the prosperity of for-Since the days when " merchant princess" existed in China a wonderful change has come over the trade in both of these articles. Fortunately they are easily The "Brothel," "Junk," and "Order and Cleanliness" Ordinances form, we believe, the trio against which the popular voice is most loudly directed. We are willing to start with the admission that they have materially interfered with what we just now called the "Local Trade," of Hongkong. The census for last year shewed a decrease of ten thousand of the greatest rascals in Hongkong. It was observable that the numbers of the respectable classes had not diminished, but even 10,000 rowdies require food, drink, and clothing. One of the most noticeable ways in which their departure 'damaged local interests was the fall in house-rent. Sub-letting ceased to be profitable to many natives, and they in turn could not afford to pay European landlords the rent which they had hitherto asked. But more than that, many of these mon were of the piratical shore, was no small element in the prosperity of the native classes. Native stores and shops were naturally affected. and as their business declined, so did their transactions with the grade above

It is, however, to the vexatious manner in which the Ordinances are carried out to the respectable classes of Chinese that buch of the depression felt is (wrongly we believe) attributed. We fully admit the evil. We see that the police want tact and "savey," and we certainly be lieve that the "obstruction" paragraph of European community, while it is an unmitigated nuisance to the natives. TO-DAY'S POLICE.

Mr May, and Mr Secretary Russell were Inspector Livingston signally distinguish ed himself in the usual manner by giving as much annoyance to the natives as possi ble by the faithfully strict administration of the ordinances which apply more directly to the Chinese. Sergeant Hazlitt, another of the scavengers of the Police Department was also prominently before the Court in the matters of ammouiacal and other smells down spouts, dirty fronts, privies, &c., &c Obstructions were represented by Livingston by a defendant who had actually had the audacity to sweep up certain pieces of ginger-peel into the side-channel. charges were solemnly but somewhat sleepi ly propounded by Livingston, who, note book in hand, detailed with very solemn minuteness the various pieces of shaving and particles of dust which are detected by these valuable servants of the public. geant Hazelitt, again, adopts a confidential tone, and trusts chiefly to his memory instead of a note-book. His efforts appeared fraternity, whose wealth and trade, on to-day to be directed or misdirected against poor people's stalls and one or two old women who had been detected keeping goats in a somewhat improper manner. . Between the two above-named inspectors, the number of cases brought up and disposed of to the inconvenience and loss of the Chinese has been something immense: not a single complaint by the public has ever been made the ground of such action, nor has any witness been ever called to aupport the bare statement of the inspectors

A Portuguese woman appeared to apply for a summons, or for protection in some form or other, against her husband, who was gambling night and day, had lost almost the Ordinance is of no benefit to the everything, and had sold almost everything, so that she had scarcely any clothes left. Mr Douglas was further examined; and he gave one or two additional facts bearing upon the case. Prisoner had been sent two or three times with Fuller to the Summary Jurisdiction Court. He had especially cautioned M'Donald on one or two occasions, saying that, as Fuller was a slippery fellow and would escape if he could, he should not let bim go out of his sight for a moment. Having sat down in the bar, they had something to drink, stayed for about five minutes, and then left together. Five minutes or so after this, prisoner came back alone, saying that the other man had Up to that time, the witness did not know that the other man was defendant's prisoner. He then sent four or five of his servants round to look after the escaped man; but advised defendant to go at once to Mr Douglas. He did not know the particulars of the escape until he heard some one read the newspapers. -Mr Donglas further stated that defendant had to him that Fuller escaped from the house of M'Nulty, and that defendant had asked to go to the water closet. -Mr May said that it was a very unfortunate thing for the defendant that Fuller had escaped from his austody, but insomuch as his orders were to take his prisoner to the Court and back, while he had gone to various places afterwards, he had been as guilty of the release of Fuller as if he had opened the Gaol gate to the prisoner, and told him to get away, His Worship said he had no option but to commit bim for trial; but defendant could make any defence he chose before him .-Defendant chose to reserve his defence until he appeared for trial in the higher Court; and the Magistrate granted bail i two bonds of $200 each, such a sum being

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

A meeting of Legislative Council was held this afternoon. Present-H. E. the Governor, the Hon. the Chief Justice. Hon. Acting Attorney General, the Hon. Colonial Secretary, Hon. Auditor General, Hon. Acting Colonial Treasurer; Hon. Messrs Keswick, H. B. Gibb, and J. B. Taylor, Hon. J. B. Taylor was sworn and took his seat as a member of Council. The minutes of last meeting having been read and approved. His Excellency laid on the table the following Ordinances :- (1) Spirit License Bill, to enable Justices to grant licenses to Restaurateurs, &c. ; (2) New Building Ordinance, a summary of which is given below (3) An Ordinance to enable the Governor to grant a pension of £200 a-year to Mr Quin, late Superintendent of Police; (4) Ordinance for better securing the health of Emigrants in Chinese Passenger ships clearing from Hongkong; and (5) Ordinance to apply a sum of $829,052.60 to the public service for 1869. These ordinances were read a first time, without any comment of a very marked character. In proposing the Ordinance empowering the Colonial expenditure for the year 1869. His Excellency read an elaborate and exhaustive address, in which, while congratulating the Council for having got the financial bark towed off the sandbank and from amongst the breakers which formerly endangered it, he strongly advocated the policy that a surplus should always be on hand for emergencies. $60,000 of temporarily useless capital was also spoken of-viz., $43,000 in copper and bronze coinage, and $17,000 of other coins of which the Treasury could not get rid. The fees derivable from the play-houses established last year by Government in default of any better means of aurveillance over a low class of men, has brought a considerable sum to the Treasury and he had thought it wisest to expend in the improvement of the Police, department on which more peculiarly devolved the carrying out of the regulations His Excellency warmly and emphatically combatted the arguments of those who disapproved the receipt of a revenue from such a source, and "frankly admitted" that gambling was irrepressible. Larceny by servants (which was expected to increase) was reduced by 75 per cent. during las quarter; and touching the exclusion of Europeans, the Governor said that they were not the criminal class, and hence that the gambling-houses were not meant for them. License is now $18,000 a month. His Excellency characterized the statement that the acquirement of revenue by the

Among the remaining items of the Estimates (a detailed statement of which we have received) were :-$15,000 to be dis bursed to police constables or officers who exhibit unusual zeal and activity; $40,000 for a steam vacht and launch, for visiting the out-stations, &c.; a sum of $1,500 for the salary of an Assistant Superintendent of the Gaol; and another of $1,440 for an Assistant Master at the Government School. At the suggestion of the Hon, H. H. Gibb, a grant in aid to the City Hall was agreed upon, (to be placed on the estimates previous to the second reading) on cond tion that facilities be given to the public t use any library and museum which migh be formed. JACK OSBORNE'S WOOING. A TALE OF THE SEA COAST.

A lovely afternoon. The sun was shining brightly forth from an unclouded sky upon the deep blue waters of the Ocean, which leaped and frolicked in the land. The exact locality matters not. It was somewhere on the southern part of the chiff-bound coast of England. The scenery was perfect of its kind. On one side, inlaud, were waving woods, green fields, and sparkling rivulets, with lowing herds chewing the cud beside them. The lofty turf-covered downs dotted over with numerous flocks of white fleecy sheep, while on the other side the high cliffs and dark rocks projected out into the sea, forming a succession of small bays and inlets, in which so much consists the picturesque beauty of that part of the coast.

On the summit of the sunny downs walked a young man in the dress of a naval officer, and by his side, resting on on his arm, was a girl worthy to be the presiding goddess of a scene so lovely. She was decidedly fair, with light hair, just tinged with an auburn line, and eyes of azure, pure as the sea she gazed on, and her costume simple in the extreme. The couple had proceeded up alone along a valley from a pretty little cottage of, every soul must be lost."
which lay ensconced snugly amid a grove of, every soul must be lost." ground between it and the sea from the wintry gales which blow from it. They had walked on for some distance without speaking, when the young lady turned her blue eyes towards the youth, apparently to inquire the cause of his silence. Whether the soft tranquillity of the scene inflienced him, or the goutle gaze of those bright eyes, it is difficult to say, but he immediately opened his mouth and commenced a series of expressions so incoherent that the maiden herself did not appear to comprehend them till he concluded by one sufficiently explicit to leave no doubt as to the meaning of the rest. It was, "Fanny, I love you. Will you mairy me?"

The words, however, did not, it seemed, give the fair girl the satisfaction it might have been expected they would have dotte, for instantly and unconsciously withdrawing her arm from that of her companion, she answered: "I am sorry. Jack, very sorry, to hear you say this. I thought you knew that my regard for you was as a sister for a brother, as I fancied yours was for me-such as would never allow thoughts of marriage to enter your head. You know that I am romantic, as it is called, and you ought to know that I am never likely to give my heart to any man, except I can look up to him and respect him as a being superior to myself-except he has done some gallant deed to win my admiration as well as that of the world. No, Jack, utter not those words again; forget that you have pronounced them, as I soon shall, and we shall be as happy in each other's society as we have hitherto been. without thinking of such folly." - She ceased, and turned away her head.

I am sorry to give you pain, cousin, but I speak what I feel and think. If a woman never gave her heart except to him who had won it by some noble deed of valor, generosity, charity, or self-sacrifice, there would be fewer useless characters in the world, and we should hear no more complaints of the degeneracy of the age And now, Mr Jack, I must return home."

They spoke not another word till they reached the garden gate of the little cottage in the valley. The young lady put out her hand, saying, quietly : "Good-bye, cousin Jack. We part friends, as we always have been; so go home, and forget all about it." Before the young sailor could answer, Fanny Ashford had disappeared in a turn of the shrubbery.

(Ex. Army Med. Staff.) CHLORODYNE

18 THE UNIGINAL AND ONLY GENDINE. Cautions,-Vice-Chanceller Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr COLLIS BEOWNE was undoubtedly the inventor of chibikouvsk; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, being the Inventor was deliberately untrue, which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent onspital Physicians of London stated, that Dr. J. Colis Browne was the discoverer of thlorodyne; that they precribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's .- See Times, The Public, therefore, are cautioned against using by them for use at any other than

DR. COLLIS BROWNE'S Chlorodyne. REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION. This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, reli- ves pain, calms the system, restores the i deranged functions and stimulates benithy action of the secretions of the body, without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opinin, Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons tearify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while Medical men extol its virtues most extensively, using it in great quantities in the following diseases: Diseases in which it is found a minerally useful-Cholera, Dysentery, Diarrhea, Coiles, Coughs Asthma, I beno atiam, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough Cramp, Hysteria, &c.

The Bight Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Divenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in Cholera was Chlorodyne.
